Subject: microsoft settlement case

I believe Microsoft used its enormous size and its dominance in the operating system market to essentially eliminate its competition in the browser market.

They have done the same thing in many other areas of software development. How can new business start up if they don't have a fighting chance against Microsoft. He has all the money and power to wipe out any new business that may appear.

The monopolistic, anti-competitive practice will continue to grow with the growth of MSN, the Passport service, Windows XP.

I disagree with the settlement proposed by the Dept of Justice, it does nothing to stop these practices by Microsoft.

Yours sincerely,
Lucille Khornak.
